

Community Helpers Poem

In our town so bright and fair,
Helpers work with love and care.
In a fire truck, loud and red,
Firefighters rush, no time for bed.

Police officers, brave and strong,
Keep our streets safe all day long.
With a badge upon their chest,
Guiding us, they are the best.

Teachers in their classrooms wide,
Open books, inviting us inside.
They help us learn and grow each day,
In this community, they light the way.

Doctors and nurses, kind and sweet,
Heal us when we're not feeling neat.
With a stethoscope and caring touch,
They help us so very much.

Mail carriers in sun or rain,
Deliver letters, a happy refrain.
Through neighborhoods, they happily roam,
Bringing news from friends to home.

Trash collectors, trucks so loud,
Keep our streets clean and proud.
With a rumble and a cheer,
They make our town so crystal clear.

In our community, big and small,
Helpers stand strong, one and all.
They make our days full of glee,
Oh, thank you, helpers, for helping me!
