

Would you rather experience a Christmas without any material gifts but filled with meaningful experiences, or a Christmas where you receive lavish presents but with no memorable moments?